BRAND HISTORY

In 1970, Red Lantern Fireworks was born in Hunan Provincial Fireworks & Firecrackers Import & Export Corp, a state-owned enterprise in Hunan. The company's top-quality products and competitive pricing earned remarkable success and market recognition, especially in Europe, Australia and Canada. Beginning in 1972, then U.S. President Nixon re-opened trade between China and the USA that had been suspended since the end of World War II. The Red Lantern Brand exported to and captured the US market and the imagination of American fireworks users. Besides traditional fireworks and firecrackers, Red Lantern also innovated many beloved products, still available, which have become classic items, such as Flower Basket Fireworks, Ground Bloom Flowers, Star Ball Contribution, Twitter Glitter, etc.

With the development of China's market economy, private enterprises have grown rapidly, while state-owned enterprises have gradually withered. Red Lantern Brand, and the other famous government-owned brands such as Horse, West Lake, Flower Basket, Temple of Heaven, and so on, got discontinued and replaced by other modern brands. At that time, Allen Yang, who started his fireworks career in Hunan Provincial Fireworks & Firecrackers Import & Export Corp after graduation from university, after 12 years of service in that state-owned enterprises, created his own fireworks company in 2005.

Founder of the ACME Fireworks Group Allen Yang has now preserved the legendary mark in the fireworks business and allowed a time-honored and outstanding brand to be passed on, the Red Lantern brand, beloved by so many. Mr. Yang has been striving to obtain patents owned by Red Lantern after he left the previous state-owned enterprise. Until 2018, ACME group owned all patents of Red Lantern Brand in the world.

It's always encouraging to bring back the old-style looking fireworks which people have such fond memories of and passion to use. With the 50-year history behind it, and the modernized professional team led by Allen Yang, Red Lantern is constantly improving and committed to returning the best quality and service to everyone.

Ladies & gentlemen, thank you all for the attention of Red Lantern Fireworks and thereby supporting this renewal. What an awesome responsibility and joy!
